Lugging paper lists from the publisher to the printing house? That was once upon a time!

Do you still send paper lists to your employees in the insert warehouse to manually check off inserts that have arrived, or are you already completely modern and do this with Excel lists? Do these lists then have to be entered manually into your distribution system? Then simply say goodbye to these procedures. Use PS.Warehouse, a portal solution specially developed for these tasks together with our customers - the perfect complement to your publishing software.

Trust is good, control is better - and now even easier

To avoid problems in the tightly scheduled production process, you and your employees need an easy-to-use tool for fast processing. The secret lies in the display of information: Display everything you urgently need, but hide everything superfluous or only display it when needed - at HUP we call this „targeted omission“. During the development of PS.Warehouse, great importance was also attached to good usability on the tablet, so that employees can move around the warehouse as freely as possible and still complete all entries conveniently and comfortably - without paper lists or slips of paper.

PS.Warehouse is your new tool for managing the inserts warehouse in your media house

Warehouse receipt - a delivery arrives

Via tablet, smartphone or laptop, your employees from the warehouse use PS.Warehouse to check the orders of the current day in clearly prepared lists and dashboards for various parameters such as:

- Size
- Weight
- Suitability for the packing machine
- Quantity

Release for processing

If the check is successful, the pallet packing slips can be printed out and the inserts thus marked for further processing. All this is done via an intuitive interface - and best of all, you only need Internet access, not a fat client to connect to your publishing system. Everything runs over a secure Internet connection and still ends up directly in the connected distribution system.

Fast feedback to your customers in case of errors in their delivery

This direct connection enables warehouse staff to quickly identify faulty deliveries from your customers, for example. The display of contact data for the responsible publishing staff or the supplier's contact person enables a quick clarification without having to go back to the office first. This enables your supplier can respond immediately to any problems - a service he will quickly come to appreciate.

Reduction to the essentials

All information necessary to complete the task is always available. All others are hidden in the standard.

After delivery

Simple cleaning of tables and lists after successful assignment. With one swipe, lists are cleared and everything is ready for the next job.

Deviations are transferred to the sales system

This makes them directly available in the accounting system, which reduces the time needed for processing and the complaint rate.
